

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

A cooling system for a motor is prevented from a thermal fatigue failure due to the temperature cycle. The operation or stop of the forced cooling motor fan 6 of the forcible cooling system is controlled using the 5 difference between the temperature thereof and the operation start temperature T_{is} of the power converter 3, thus expansion of the temperature range is suppressed.

[Selected Drawing] Fig. 1